Employment Problem Congress Comes Back Soul and Body One Quite a Budget

President Hoover's forceful address to nearly 400 industrial leaders in Washington is one for which the country will thank him. It is bound to produce results.

There is no cause for any pessimism or permanent discouragement, but the well-informed men know that there has been a sharp increase in unemployment.

We have probably in the United States fully as many unemployed as there are in Britain, where government pays a "dole," enough to live on each week, to those out of work.

We have here 2,000,000 more unemployed than they have in France, where unemployment is practically unknown.

And this is surprising in the richest, most prosperous country on earth. The President is determined to do something about it.

Congress again is in session and a cut of $100,000,000 in the income tax is the program.

That will be welcome news to those that pay income tax, a small percentage of all the people.

But it is just as important news to those that pay no income tax. They all earn money, and any cut in income tax, especially in corporation tax, encourages development, expansion, employment.

A man will work harder for money that the government does not take away from him.

One of the most important institutions in America is the new psychiatric unit of the medical center at Columbia college.

Doctor Butler of Columbia, Doctor Kirby and all promoting that important scientific center, including the New York state authorities, are to be congratulated.

At the dedication Dr. Eugene Bleuler of the University of Zurich explained to a hundred and fifty assembled scientists that acquired characteristics are transmitted through successive generations. Average intelligence realizes that.

Professor Bleuler says the body and soul are one.

Billions upon billions of individual cells make up the human body. They are the inhabitants of a great republic, one human being. Each cell has its spark of consciousness, the total being a human mind.

The human body and mind are the two great marvels of our small world.

President Hoover presents to congress a budget of three billion eight hundred and thirty million and a few odd hundred thousand dollars.

It seems a great deal as compared with the days before the war when the government spent one billion in two years and everybody yelled "What extravagance!"

However, thanks to Secretary Mellon, President Coolidge and President Hoover, the amount that we are going to spend next year is a great deal less than we have been spending.

The income tax will be cut $100,000,000, if plans go through.

The President's reassuring expressions on the stock market crash, and especially his energetic and effective action in the assembling of great industrialists and mapping out a prosperity program, call for public gratitude.

Russia, naturally, is annoyed at United States interference in China. The Russians say Uncle Sam is trying to snatch away their victory, and encourage China.

The United States is cleverly put in the position of leading the other nations in what Russia considers meddling interference.

John D. Rockefeller III, grandson of the builder of the name, started to work at 28 Broadway, New York. He was no time.

Twenty-three years old, a big young man, bigger physically than his father, John D. III will have many opportunities in life. He will inherit what is called the world's largest fortune. By the time he gets it, it may not be as big as Edsel Ford's and not as big as that of some unknown man today.

But he will surely have enough to carry out any ideas that he may have. Everything depends on the ideas.

A man who understands coal and oil has a patent for burning coal underground in the mine.

One extracted from the coal would be piped to the surface and sold.

That is an improvement on blasting and digging coal, hauling it to the surface, loading it on cars, carting it to cities.

Changed into gas, coal travels transported by its own power of expansion.

Standard Oil of New Jersey is making gasoline from coal. One coal supplier is a vast, and the coal industry has been in a bad way. Human ingenuity may bring it back again.

GRAYLING DEBATERS WIN FROM STANDISH

The second debate in the series of High School debates on the subject "Resolved: That a judge or board of judges be substituted for the jury in all trials in the state and municipal courts of Michigan," was held in the Grayling High school auditorium last week Friday afternoon when the local team met Standish. Grayling debaters upheld the negative side of the question and were given the decision.

L. J. Turner of Saginaw Junior High school acted as judge. In his summary of the debate he was inclined to give the Standish debaters a slight edge on delivery. For construction and for rebuttal he conceded the honors to Grayling.

M. A. Bates introduced the speakers. The members of the competing teams were as follows: Grayling: Mary Mahneke, Margaret Warren and Thorwald Sorenson. Standish: Martha McLarty, Harold LaLonde and Valetta Chantigny.

Charles Hill is the debating coach for Grayling and, altho a patient in the hospital at the time, his training was plainly evidenced by the masterful way in which our young people handled their subject. As stated by Mr. Turner, there wasn't a lot of oratory with empty meanings but instead they presented facts that weighed heavily in the discussion of the subject. Our debaters answered every statement made by their opponents in a convincing manner and, we honestly believe, outshone their opponents in every phase of the debate. And we can hardly agree with Mr. Turner when he would give Standish an edge on delivery. Our debaters gave their talks with out hesitation in a clear and outspoken manner, while there was more or less hesitation on the part of their opponents.

Last year Standish defeated Grayling and was clearly the superior team. This year they came here with two of the same speakers on their team but they found here a different team from the one they met last year. At that time our team had had no previous experience and, besides, school had been closed for two weeks because of measles just at the time the team had begun to prepare for the work, and Mr. Hill was away from Grayling. This year it was different. Standish has a very well balanced team and they put up a fine battle but it was no disgrace to lose to Grayling this time.

Grayling's first debate was with Alpena about a month ago when three judges decided that Alpena had the edge by two to one.

The next debate will be with West Branch at that city on January 10th, 1930, when a new team will defend the affirmative side of the question.

YOUNG TEACHER PASSES AWAY

Miss Bertha Bessey, teacher of French and Latin in Grayling school, passed away at Mercy Hospital Saturday at about 5:30 p. m. The cause of death was erysipelas. Miss Bessey was 21 years of age and the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst A. Bessey of East Lansing, where Mr. Bessey is Dean of Sciences in Michigan State College. Miss Bessey had been ill only a few days. Her mother was with her during her last hours.

Miss Bessey graduated from Michigan State college last year with credit of an A student and was a member of one of the leading societies, graduating with high honors. It was with a great deal of pride that the parents watched her commencement. She was reared in a home of culture and refinement. Her work in Grayling school proved to be quite strenuous for her. This was not improved by some of the discourteous discipline on the part of some of the pupils according to some rumors. However, Miss Bessey was game to the last and tried honestly to win the confidence and esteem of her pupils. She was ready to do anything that was for the good of the school. However, the matter weighed heavily upon her mind and when she was taken ill she seemed to lack the strength to combat the disease.

It is a very sad affair and cast a lot of sorrow over the school and those people who had come to know her during her brief residence here. She resided at the home of Mrs. Hermann. The father arrived here early Sunday morning and was met at the train by Secretary M. A. Bates of the school board and taken to the Hermann home.

The remains of Miss Bessey were

NEW HEALTH NURSE ARRIVES

Miss Ethel Hoffa arrived in Grayling from Chicago Wednesday noon to commence her service as district health nurse, in cooperation with Dr. R. B. Howard. She is assigned to Crawford county. Other nurses will be placed in Missaukee and Kalkaska counties right away and next spring one will be detailed to serve in Roscommon county.

Dr. Howard started Miss Hoffa at work this morning, beginning with Frederic schools, where she will make an examination of the school pupils, in conjunction with Supt. Payne. Other schools in the county will be inspected in due time. Miss Hoffa is a trained public health worker of experience and understands how to get good results, all for the benefit of better health of our young people.

A citizen in one of Southern Michigan's cities has left an endowment fund for the carrying out of this work, with the understanding that the communities affiliating must raise an equal amount necessary to pay the costs in their community. This is a very generous offer and Grayling should unite in the plan and get the benefit of this work among our young men. The cost isn't large and there should be enough people here interested to assume practically all our half of the local expense.

There were twelve representative men in attendance at the banquet and all felt that the plan offered a fine opportunity for our Grayling young men.

ORGANIZED DIST. BOARD OF HEALTH

The first meeting of the Consolidated District Board of Health was held on December 9, 1929, at the court house in Grayling at 3 P. M.

The minutes of the meeting are as follows: The Board of Health is composed of the following men:

- Dr. C. R. Keyport, of Grayling.
- Mr. O. B. Scott, of Crawford County.

Mr. Frank Barnett, of Crawford County.

Mr. O. P. Schumann, of Crawford County (School and Press).

Mr. Frank Richardson, of Roscommon County.

Mr. Bruce Rutledge, of Roscommon County.

Mr. A. D. Whipple, of Missaukee County.

Mr. Charley Taylor, of Missaukee County.

Dr. J. F. Doudna, of Missaukee County.

Mr. James Jenkins, of Kalkaska County.

Mr. John Gillett, of Kalkaska County.

The meeting was called to order by R. B. Howard at 3:15 p. m., with the following present: in person or by proxy:

- Dr. C. R. Keyport.
- Mr. O. P. Schumann.
- Mr. O. B. Scott.
- Mr. Frank Barnett.
- Mr. A. D. Whipple.
- Mr. Charley Taylor.
- Mr. James Jenkins.
- Mr. Frank Richardson.

A motion was made by Mr. Frank Barnett and supported by Mr. O. B. Scott that Dr. C. R. Keyport be elected Chairman of the Board of Health. The motion was carried and Dr. Keyport took charge of the meeting.

The law was then read by Dr. R. B. Howard covering the union of two or more counties in a consolidated health department. A motion was made by Mr. Frank Barnett and supported by Mr. O. P. Schumann that Dr. R. B. Howard be appointed Health Officer of the consolidated district. The motion was carried.

Through the investigation of Dr. Keyport the following ordinance was drawn up and presented for discussion:

(1) That all communicable diseases shall be reported to the Health Officer of the Consolidated District Health Department at Grayling within 24 hours of its diagnosis or suspicion and the communicable disease law supported by the Michigan Health Department shall be carried out and enforced by the health officer.

(2) That all death and birth cer-

SOON TOO LATE

But ten more shopping days remain before Christmas.

Perhaps you have not finished your Christmas shopping yet, but there still remains time to conclude the final details without being part of a last minute rush that does so much to mar the season for so many people.

Invariably you will make a mental note while you are reading this to attend to it the first thing tomorrow. When tomorrow comes don't forget your resolve—it will pay big dividends all around.

And by all means trade with the home merchant this year—he is entitled to that much loyalty on your part—and the dollar spent at home will do much for this community.

WOULD ORGANIZE Y. GROUP IN GRAYLING

An enthusiastic group of men met last Saturday evening at Shoppens Inn at a dinner given in honor of Mr. Walter Gospi of Boyne City for the purpose of discussing the prospect for organizing a local Y. M. C. A. as a part of a district comprising several northern Michigan counties.

Mr. Gospi gave a resume of the operations of such an organization, working in some of the communities in the southern part of the state. In the plan he proposed there are to be no local quarters in the way of buildings, rooms or places for meetings but instead groups of young men will be encouraged in better Christian citizenship and better community citizenship. Wherever these groups have been formed there has been a lot of enthusiasm among the young men. It gives them rights and privileges when in cities where such organizations exist that are valuable and fine. Also it is the plan to get these young men together, summer for outings where they may come under the leadership of fine, active and moral men.

A citizen in one of Southern Michigan's cities has left an endowment fund for the carrying out of this work, with the understanding that the communities affiliating must raise an equal amount necessary to pay the costs in their community.

This is a very generous offer and Grayling should unite in the plan and get the benefit of this work among our young men. The cost isn't large and there should be enough people here interested to assume practically all our half of the local expense.

There were twelve representative men in attendance at the banquet and all felt that the plan offered a fine opportunity for our Grayling young men.

PULL MEAN TRICK ON MCGUIRE DUFFEE

McGuire Duffee is pretty angry over a trick that was played upon him and his children last Saturday night when someone phoned one of his children that he was dead, and for him to notify the other relatives.

Sunday morning's early train brought him in some of his family and they were amazed when their father met them at the door, alive and well. Others arrived by auto early the next forenoon, having driven all night. Phone and wire messages were at once sent out to those who may not have started for Grayling, heading them off.

It was a mean trick on the part of someone and anything but honorable. It has cost the children of Mr.

Just enough snow for good sleighing and just cold enough to hold it. Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Roblin of Bay City were here visiting his brother, R. M. Roblin, the first of the week. There are 2,455 daily newspapers in the United States with an average daily circulation of 19,624,757.

Yesterday afternoon in the storm the big drove of Texas steers from the O. F. Barnes ranch struck town. Quarters had to be secured for the herd as shipment must be delayed for hours because of lack of yard room for loading onto cars. They were consigned to the Saginaw Beef Company and numbered some 200 head. They were a prime lot, and the well-equipped herders who seemed to be prepared for trouble, and the citizens who expected a stampede in the storm, were disappointed. The herd was as undemonstrative and as placid as a tribe of Highlanders who could not speak the Gaelic, and were just as tractable. We understand that Mr. Barnes being a believer in rotation of crops, will replace the outgoing cattle with between five and ten thousand sheep.

RECORD CONVICTIONS FOR GAME VIOLATORS

Sixty-two conservation laws were violated during the month of October by 603 men arrested by Conservation officers according to a report issued by the law enforcement division of the Department of Conservation.

The 603 violators paid fines and costs aggregating $17,549.95, the highest amount for any one month in the history of the Department. In addition to fines, conservation law violators served a total of 490 days in jail.

Increasing severity of sentences for violations of conservation laws, a fact that has been noted by the Department for the past several months, continued in October. During that month the average penalty was $28.77. During September it was $27.01; in August $20.80, and in July $19.95. The total fines and costs paid in October were practically double the figures for the previous month.

According to the records of the Department, during October, 1928, 437 were arrested for breaking conservation laws.

The 62 conservation laws violated during October included everything from killing bears to destroying property of the Department.

Several men were convicted and sentenced for using muskrat traps that did not bear metal tags which bore the names and addresses of the owners. This was in violation of one of the acts of the 1929 legislature.

The majority of the violations were for illegal shooting of pheasants, for shooting the birds out of season or for shooting hen pheasants. Fines for shooting hen pheasants ranged from $50.00 to $100.

Among the conservation laws violated were: shooting an eagle; shipping furs illegally; carrying firearms while under the influence of liquor; using more than one gun in hunting ducks; loaning licenses; shooting seagulls; hunting ducks from motorboats and carrying guns while training dogs.

The most severe penalties were imposed on two Detroit men who were fined $100 each and were sent to jail for 60 days each for killing song birds.

During October the Department of Conservation confiscated 155 rifles and shotguns used in committing game law violations. In addition the Department confiscated two automobiles; a canoe; innumerable muskrat and beaver hides; a quantity of venison and a quantity of fish. Several fish nets were taken.

MOTORISTS BEWARE!

With the first touch of cold weather newspaper headlines flare forth with the same old warning story—"MOTORIST FINDS DEATH IN DEADLY MONOXIDE FUMES"—yet despite these terse warnings death in this manner is of almost daily occurrence.

If your car is cold when you go out to start it in the morning—if the radiator is frozen—use any other method to thaw out your machine except by letting the motor run in an enclosed building.

Monoxide gas attacks the respiratory organs. It usually strikes with a suddenness that prevents the victim from shutting off the motor or escaping into the fresh air. Even the smallest engines can poison the atmosphere in a few moments so that it is dangerous—often fatal.

It doesn't pay to take chances. See that there is plenty of ventilation before starting up your engine. You'll live to enjoy much of the winter scenery if you do.

PLANE TAKES OFF FROM HUDSON AUTO

An aviation stunt, said to have never before been attempted, was carried out successfully at Old Orchard Beach, when a Moth Airplane took off from the top of a speeding Hudson Sedan. The car was driven by Ira J. Snow of Pine Point, Me., and the plane by Alexander Krapish of Lowell. The Hudson car, equipped with two uprights from the running board, extending six inches above the top, and another upright from the tire carrier, was furnished by the Henly Kimball Company of Boston. Fastened to the tops of the two forward uprights was a plank, on which the wheels of the plane rested. The tailskid rested on a bracket attached to the rear upright. The wheels were fastened to the plank by a coupling so arranged that it could be released by the pilot of the plane by pulling a string.

MAKE THAT VISIT NOW

We see it so often.
Some one dies. The folks come to the funeral. The parents come or the children come. The brothers and sisters come. Relatives come.

Many of those who come to the funeral never came to visit the deceased in his or her lifetime. We know of cases in which a son had not been back to the old town for 20 years. But he came to attend his mother's funeral. We have heard of brothers who never saw anything of each other since early manhood. But after death had laid his hand on the one the other came to see his brother in the coffin.

Of course people should attend the funerals of the relatives. It is a mark of respect. But how much better it is to see the folks, the loved ones, the friends, while they are still alive. Then it is that the visit is most appreciated. Folks who are dead do not know those who attend their funerals. But there is many a heart that is yearning for a visit with some member of the family, with some friend.

Mrs. Otto Cox entertained the "Smart-Set" at her home Thursday afternoon. After the business meeting games were enjoyed. Mrs. Oscar Smith, Mrs. Herbert Stephan and Mrs. Neal McDaniels won the prizes. The first of a series of dancing parties was given at the Temple Theatre by Alvin LaChapelle last Saturday night. There was a good crowd present and everyone had a good time. Mixed with the modern dances were old-fashioned square dances which made a big hit with the dancers. Young and old alike are enjoying the old-time dances, and with Bill Christenson doing the calling one just can't help but have a good time. Al's Syncopators orchestra of four pieces furnished the music and was assisted by George Annis and his violin for the square dances. It was just one big, jolly party. Next Saturday night will occur the second of the series of dances. It is planned to give one of these dances every Saturday evening and one about Christmas time.

Tom Caniff left Monday night for Detroit owing to the death of his younger brother, George Caniff, who was accidentally killed in Detroit early Monday morning while attempting to cross in traffic in front of 1256 Cherry Street. Mr. Caniff, who was employed in a coal office at 1880 Cherry Street, reported for work as usual at seven o'clock in the morning. His roommate, Mr. Clifford Dale, also employed at the same office, was to have joined him in a restaurant across the street for breakfast and said while he was waiting he heard a commotion in front of the restaurant and rushed to the street where he found the crushed body of Mr. Caniff. Witnesses of the accident said at least four cars ran over his prostrate body before one finally came to a stop, and his death will be investigated further by police authorities of Detroit. The Caniff family have the sympathy of their friends in Grayling who are very sorry to hear of their misfortune. The deceased was at one time a resident of Roscommon county.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Congress Hears President's Message and Gets Busy on Tax Reduction.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
CONGRESS is doing business again at the old stand, the first regular session having opened Monday with perfunctory meetings of both houses. Next day President Hoover's annual message was read in senate and house, being listened to with intense interest and praised by administration supporters and criticized by the opposition.

The document was long and comprehensive, consisting of a matter of five statements of what the administration has done and of what it hopes to do in the near future, followed by many recommendations to the legislative body. Concerning international matters the President expressed "high hopes" for the success of the naval conference in London, and made the significant statement that if the movement for reduction of armament fails, the United States may find it necessary to spend upward of $1,200,000,000 in naval construction in the next six years. He gave praise to the Kellogg-Brand pact and said he would submit to the senate later the amended world court reservations. He urged ratification of the French debt settlement. In view of the uncertainty with respect to future revenue, the President recommended that the proposed 1 per cent cut in individual and corporation income taxes be limited to the present year. He urged early action on the tariff bill, again asking that the measure be devoted to aid agriculture and industries that have not been prosperous, and once more he advised that the flexible tariff provision be retained.

Mr. Hoover's liking for commissions was evidenced in several recommendations. These included suggestions for a commission to study the problem of branch group and chain banking, a commission to dispose of the Muscle Shoals controversy and a commission to study conditions in Haiti. The message advocated an increase in appropriations for rivers and harbors improvement from $50,000,000 to $55,000,000 annually, at least half of which should be available for the Mississippi inland waterways system. It also asked bigger appropriation for construction of public buildings and for ocean mail contracts. Concerning the reorganization of government departments, the President said he had come to the conclusion that the only way to avoid endless controversy was to delegate authority to the executive.

When he reached the subject of prohibition and law enforcement, the President used decidedly vigorous language. In dealing with the former he said that "it is not to be expected that any criminal law will ever be fully enforced so long as criminals exist," and of law enforcement he said "the observance generally he said it is 'the most serious issue before our people.' He asked the citizen, laws which he will obey, branding him as the enemy of society. He made a number of recommendations for legislation to aid in enforcement of the prohibition law.

ON WEDNESDAY the President sent to congress the budget for the fiscal year 1931 calling for the expenditure of $3,800,000,000. Of this sum about $719,000,000 are for national defense activities, including the laying down of the three 10,000 ton cruisers on which suspension of work was ordered by President Hoover last summer. An outlay of $33,000,000 for the army and navy air services is contemplated, and $30,000,000 is to be expended on public buildings.

SPEDDY action on the administration's $100,000,000 tax reduction program was obtained in the house, the joint resolution for the legislation going through practically without opposition. It was assumed that the senate also would adopt the resolution after some debate, and that the legislation would be enacted before the Christmas holidays. While the reduction applies to only one year, there were indications that the President hopes it can be made permanent.

THE senate, according to program, took up the three year old controversy over the right of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania to a seat in that body. Efforts to delay the debate were defeated, and on Wednesday Mr. Vare himself, crippled by partial paralysis and watched over by his physician, appeared in the senate chamber and read a detailed denial of the charges of fraud and corruption in his campaign for nomination and election in 1926. Every one knew that Vare's appeal was hopeless, for a majority of the senators were hostile to his cause. The privileges and elections committee had decided in his favor, the contest brought by W. B. Wilson, the defeated Democratic candidate, but a minority of that committee reported that alleged ballot box frauds and corruption made Vare's election illegal. Radical Republican senators could vote for this report because it would accomplish the exclusion of Vare without seating a Democrat.

WHEN President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, backed by Great Britain, took cognizance of China's appeal and sent a note to Russia and China asking them to remember their obligations under the Kellogg pact and stop their warlike activities in Manchuria, they ran against an ugly snag. Maxam Litvinoff, acting Russian commissar of foreign affairs, replied with a brusque note virtually telling the United States to mind its own business. He attempted to justify Moscow's course in the Manchurian embargo, and then emphasized that the United States government had appealed to Russia at a time when direct negotiations were being carried on with Manchuria. By strength of this circumstance, the American note to Russia was termed an unjustified attempt to influence the Chinese-Russian negotiations, and consequently could not be considered as a friendly act.

The commissar followed this with a public statement in the course of which he advised the United States and Great Britain to turn their minds toward activities in South America, warships in Chinese waters, and armies in colonial countries rather than attempt to obstruct the Russo-Chinese negotiations.

Secretary Stimson in a statement to the press made a sharp rejoinder upholding the right of any nation to mobilize world public opinion against a threatened outbreak of war.

The Nationalist government of China announced it would do all possible to effect a peaceable settlement with Russia of the controversy over the Chinese Eastern railway.

NEARLY four hundred of the country's leaders in business, finance and industry gathered in Washington Thursday at the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to take steps for the advancing business progress. Mr. Hoover himself told them first of the progress made through the series of conferences held previously, and Assistant Secretary Klein of the Commerce department addressed them on "the elements of strength and weakness in the present business situation."

A general discussion followed, culminating in the organization of a permanent committee, which is to maintain an alert scrutiny over national production, distribution and consumption, for the purpose of noting depressions in particular fields as they develop and of evolving a means of dealing with them before they become serious.

In his survey Mr. Klein, although saying that "admittedly in some industries the situation is not as satisfactory as it might be," and nothing is to be gained by gliding these less solid wheels in our business mechanism," went on to declare that agriculture, in a broad sense, is sound, transportation active and efficient, mining and most major manufacturing activities "predominantly healthy," with a sound fiscal and banking system and available credit at reasonable rates. Prices are steady with a somewhat downward trend, and inventories are low and without indication of any serious congestion.

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL and Queen Helena of Italy made history Thursday, when they paid their formal visit to Pope Pius. They were the first sovereigns of united Italy ever to enter the Vatican. Minister of Foreign Affairs Dino Grandi, Count de Vecchi, Italian ambassador to the holy see and a great throng of courtiers, accompanied the rulers to the Vatican City, all being in closed automobiles and escorted by cyclist police. Hundreds of thousands of persons gathered in the streets to witness the procession, and on buildings along the way the Italian and papal colors were displayed. High officials of the Vatican City met the king and queen at the Arch of Charlemagne, the papal gendarmes presented arms and their band played the royal march. After a lot more stately ceremonial the visitors entered the throne room alone, the pope met them and raised them up as they bent to kiss his hand; then the door closed and the three conversed alone for a time. The royal pair as they left carried precious religious gifts bestowed by the pontiff. After calling on Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, and receiving holy water from Cardinal Merry del Val, they worshipped in St. Peter's and returned to their palace.

ALL of our biggest oil magnates and Sir Henri Deterding of Holland, managing director of the Royal Dutch Shell companies, were in Chicago last week attending the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute. The fact that Henry F. Sinclair is still popular among oil men was demonstrated by his selection as a speaker of the institute. Edward L. Anderson, who refused his own request, (deterding addressed) to the convention a plan for conservation of oil.

"A great many today," he said "think the oil supplies inexhaustible. We pay too little attention to wasteful exploitation (apart from producing too much), forgetting that new fields in the States may still be discovered, but that they can never be created. Nature put them in limited number and it is almost childish to state that the more that are discovered the fewer are left to the fate of discovery."

"B. H. Beezer, president of the Institute, asserted that the American petroleum industry had succeeded in balancing demand and supply of crude oil supplies but that there was still an overproduction of gasoline.

POSTMASTER GENERAL BROWN'S annual report revealed that the deficit in his department for the year ending June 30 was $85,401,176, or more than twice as big as the previous year. Among the factors responsible for this fact were the granting of $7,470,000 additional pay to postal workers and the payment of $7,890,000 on ocean mail contracts; also the downward revision of postal rates during the last year reduced revenues about $21,628,000 below what they would have been. Mr. Brown's report said that the department handled free of charge special privileged mail that otherwise would have paid in nearly ten millions of dollars.

REPRESENTATIVE TINKHAM of Massachusetts has prodded the senate committee on lobbying so severely that it may inquire into the activities and sources of revenue of a lot of lobbyists other than those whose concern is with the tariff. These may include the Anti-Saloon league and other bodies that are supposed to influence the votes of congressmen in matters relating to prohibition. Chairman Caraway of the committee told Mr. Tinkham the investigators would give him a public hearing. The Massachusetts representative has introduced a measure to require under the threat of heavy penalties for violators, the registration of persons attempting to influence legislation.

COBLENZ, GERMANY, was ablaze with bonfires and torches and with banners during a twenty-four celebration of the liberation of the second zone of occupation of the Rhineland. As the allied troops marched out, the German authorities marched in, the bands played and the people rejoiced hysterically. It has been announced that the last of the British occupational troops will leave the Rhine land on December 12.

EVERYBODY DOES IT

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Whether heredity or environment plays the greater part in the development of our characters and our habits is possibly still a matter of difference of opinion. There is much to be said upon either side, but there is no doubt that what others about us are doing in a large measure determines our own procedure, and often to a much greater extent than it should. We constantly hear the excuse in justification of an irregular or illegal procedure: "Well, everybody does it," an excuse which sometimes seems almost an adequate justification of murder.

Gordon had all his life been quite exemplary in his conduct until the Volstead act was passed. Alcohol was something which he had given no consideration. I suspect that neither he nor his wife had ever tasted liquor of any sort. It is quite different now. There is a handsome silver cocktail shaker upon the Gordon sideboard and liquor on the shelves below. Whenever the Gordons have guests the bottles are brought out and good cheer is stimulated. Similar practices are followed when the Gordons call upon their friends.

"I never touched a drop until I was thirty," Gordon said to me not long ago. "I know I can't go for me now, but one cannot go out these days among one's friends without being offered a drink and what is one to say? Everybody's doing it."

Of course I could have suggested that he decline to take liquor as he might pass up a sauer kraut juice at a dinner party if it happened to be served, but I know that such a procedure would embarrass him, and so refrained from giving him advice.

Mrs. Crawford's sixteen-year-old daughter, who is not robust at best, was looking pretty pale and hollow-eyed when Nancy and I were calling on the family a few evenings ago.

"Isn't Stella well?" I inquired, really concerned as to her condition.

"Well, she isn't at all strong," Mrs. Crawford explained. "But the real trouble is she doesn't get rest and sleep enough, and she is tired out all the time."

"Why?" I asked. I knew the Crawfords had servants enough so that Stella was not worn out from carrying the burden of household duties, and high school work never wears anyone out.

"She is out late at some sort of social affair two or three times a week. There are dances and theater parties and automobile rides. She never gets to bed until after midnight."

"But why do you let her?" I asked innocently. I have never had a daughter and supposed that parents still have some control of their children.

"Oh, everybody's doing it these days, and one cannot peacefully keep one's children from doing what all the neighbors' children are doing."

"I suppose so," I answered, "not even if it kills them to keep up with the crowd."

It was the same explanation I got from Stimmans when I talked to him about a violation of college regulation which involved actual dishonesty. "Oh, I know it's wrong," he said, "but everybody's doing it."

WASHINGTON NEWS AND COMMENTS

(By Congressman Roy O. Woodruff, Tenth Michigan District.)

The regular session of the 71st Congress is now under way and the machinery is being put in motion for the transaction of much public business between now and the time of adjournment, which will probably approximate the 1st of the coming July.

The first few days of the session were occupied by the House in organizing the various committees and in passing the President Hoover tax-reduction plan which called for a reduction of the normal tax on all incomes for the year 1929.

The House, with its usual clarity and efficiency passed this important measure at one of its sessions. This bill had the approval of both the Secretary of the Treasury and the President. An interesting thing in connection with it is the fact that the tax on small incomes, and by small incomes I speak of every income of ten thousand dollars per year or under, was reduced sixty-six and two-thirds per cent, while the tax on incomes of two hundred thousand dollars and above was reduced but four and one-half per cent. A graduated reduction was made on incomes between ten thousand and two hundred thousand dollars per year. It will be seen in view of these facts that the largest proportionate tax reduction bill has been sent to the Senate and before Christmas will probably have passed that body and become the law. Its enactment may very properly be considered a Christmas present for the American people.

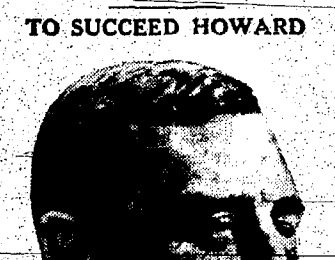

The Senate, after many weary weeks, is still working on the unfinished tariff bill. This bill as it left the House gave to the farmers more consideration in the way of tariff protection than they have ever had in the history of the protective tariff. The coalition in the Senate composed of Democrats and Republicans, has so amended the bill that it unquestionably gives to the farmers of the country as great a measure of protection as any industry has received in the past from any tariff bill.

After this bill has passed the Senate it will then be necessary for the two bodies of Congress to harmonize their differences on this question through the medium of conferees appointed by the Speaker of the House and the Vice President. I have no doubt that the Senate views on agricultural products will very largely prevail, and if this is so, certainly agriculture will be greatly benefited in the years to come. I am in hope that this bill may also become a law by Christmas, and if it does, American agriculture will have received the most generous Christmas present of its existence.

The first order of business in the Senate after the convening of the regular session was the consideration of the notorious Vare case. The columns of the newspapers for the past two or three years have been filled with the facts regarding this case so it is not necessary for me to review them here. I will only say that after a few days deliberation the Senate went on record by a vote of 58 to 22 declaring the seat vacant and placing the Governor of Pennsylvania in a position to appoint a Senator from that State.

The action of the Senate in this case should be notice to every candidate for the U. S. Senate throughout the country now and in the future that the high office of Senator cannot be placed upon the bargain counter and sold to the highest bidder. Had this practice gone unchecked, had the Senate of the United States approved of the vast expenditures of money in the Senatorial election in Pennsylvania it would have amounted to closing the doors to those candidates who have little of this world's goods, unless they are willing to barter their political souls to secure the where-withal to influence an election in their behalf. The Senate is to be congratulated upon this most commendable action. Michigan's two Senators, Couzens and Vandenberg, voted with the majority to protect the integrity of Senatorial elections.

TO SUCCEED HOWARD
Sir Ronald Lindsay has been selected as British ambassador to Washington, to succeed Sir James Howard when the latter retires from the diplomatic service early next year. Sir Ronald was formerly ambassador to Germany and is now undersecretary of state for foreign affairs. His first wife was Miss Martha Cameron, daughter of the late Senator J. Donald Cameron of Pennsylvania. She died in 1918 and six years later Sir Ronald again married an American woman, a daughter of the late Colgate Hoyt of New York.

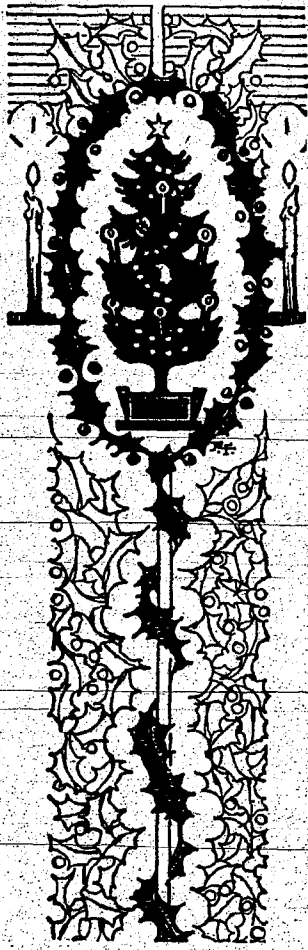

We cannot imagine anything that will make a girl look worse than to have her hair half-way between bobbed and long.—Hillsboro News-Herald.

A GIFT SUGGESTION

What would make a more appreciated gift at moderate cost than a year's subscription to the home paper THE AVALANCHE—a visitor every week for fifty-two weeks, bringing all the news of Grayling, Crawford County, and vicinity.

Don't you know of some absent one, or some friend here at home who does not get the paper, to whom such a gift would be thrice welcome.

JUST BE CAREFUL

Michigan winters the last few years have been marked by an unusual amount of ice on the highways, caused by snow removal which leaves the roads in such shape that every light thaw and freeze forms a thin coating of snow and ice on the hard surface.

And there seems to be no remedy for this condition, so rapidly is the falling snow rolled down and flattened out by the rubber tired vehicles, making it impossible to keep the pavements thoroughly bare through the greater part of the season.

There is only one answer to this new hazard—careful driving. Railroad crossings, street and highway intersections should be approached with great caution, and at no time should a car be driven at an excessive speed with such a slippery coating underneath the wheels. Traffic laws will not help—it is up to the individual motorist to be his own "safety first" movement.

ELECTRICITY

"What do you name your baby 'Electricity'?"

"Well, mah name am Mose, and mah wife's name am Dina, and if Dinahmose don't make electricity, what does dey make?"

Old Santa Claus

By FOLGER MCKINSEY
in Baltimore Sun

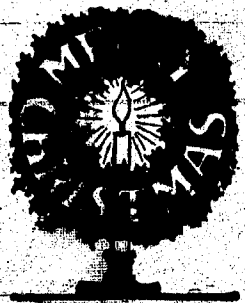

He used to come in a reindeer sleigh,
And then he came in a running car;
He'll try to come in a flying machine,
Eighty miles from the Christmas star.
He used to come by the old roof,
And then he came by the rolling snow;
And now he'll come from the rolling snow,
To empty his Christmas load.

He's changed a lot since the olden times
But he wears the same fat suit;
And he dares still to the little houses
That have never forgotten their wife.
And he likes the children as much of old
When earth at the Christmas hour
Was over a land of the dream of gold
With the heart of child in flower.

An altered world, and he must, too,
But he'll bring the bundle of play-
things through;
By flying machine or by flying dream,
He'll fill the rooms of our hearts
With gleam;
He'll buckle his belt and hitch his blouse
He'll swagger and puff and blow—
While every one waits in the quiet house
As they did in the long ago.

THE REPORT CARD

(By Grayling Public Schools)

Triple Victory For Grayling

Last Friday afternoon the second debate of the season took place in the High School assembly. By the unanimous decision of the judges, Grayling negative team defeated the Standish affirmative. Mr. Hill was unable to be present, so his place was filled by Mr. Cushman.

The negative debaters have finished for this season. In the next debate Grayling will uphold the affirmative side of the question with a new team at West Branch, Jan. 10, 1930.

Grayling vs. Standish

More success for Grayling High last Friday when we won a double header or including the debate, what might be called a triple header, from Standish.

At 8 o'clock the boys' second team played against Standish second. What a game! It ended 13 to 8 in our favor. This game told us that we have some very promising material for future years of basketball.

Following the second team, in a like manner the boys of the first squad went out to win. They finished with a score of 14 to 8. The high point man for the evening was Korhonen.

Cochran Cushman received a letter from Mr. A. W. Thompson, stating that the boys from Rosecommon could play on our teams as long as they are coming here to school.

Personals

Mr. Hill is back in school again with one arm temporarily out of use because of his accident. However, he is as busy as ever.

Anna—Ain't that cow got a lovely coat?
Bunny—Its a Jersey.
Anna—And I thought it was its skin.

"Why, Walter?" cried the angry mother, "look at your sticky fingers! Where have you been?" The kid who was plainly cut out to be a lawyer answered, "I was just trying to help you, I was helping for that pair of scissors you lost. It wasn't in the jam, mother."

A traveler had been telling the beginners class about the ten commandments. In order to test their memories she asked: "Can anyone give me a commandment containing only four words?"
A hand was raised. "Well," said the teacher.
"Keep off the grass," was the reply.

MANY KILLED BY CARELESS HUNTERS

Carelessness with guns caused seven deaths during Michigan's 1929 deer season.

There were eleven fatalities in the northern woods during the recent deer hunting season, according to reports received by the Department of Conservation.

Seven were killed in the upper peninsula and four in the lower peninsula of the state.

Twenty-three men were injured in one way or another during the deer season, the reports show. Six were wounded when they were mistaken for deer in the woods; three were struck by stray bullets. One man was injured when a bullet aimed at a rabbit struck a tree and glanced back and struck him. One hunter lost an eye when a deer ran from the woods and plucked his head through the window beside the hunter who was driving a car. One of the buck's prongs struck the driver in the left eye.

A southern Michigan hunter was severely burned when his tent camp caught fire. Another hunter was injured when he was mistaken for a rabbit. He was shot in the leg.

The toll of hunting accidents in Michigan since September 1, is now 26 dead and 88 injured. Before the deer season opened 14 had been killed, most of them in truck hunting accidents. During the deer season there was one fatality among rabbit hunters, a gun accidentally exploding as two rabbit hunters were in their home preparing their guns for hunting.

The Department of Conservation is now compiling detailed data concerning each hunting accident in an attempt to find fundamental causes.

"BAY CITY UNDER THE MICROSCOPE"

Rev. C. E. Doty of Bay City, formerly pastor of Michelson Memorial church of this city, has been receiving a lot of favorable comments for a sermon that he gave Sunday, Dec. 1st. The theme of his sermon was "Bay City Under the Microscope." He drew three conclusions, after careful research, regarding some of the needs of Bay City.

The Bay City Times printed his sermon in full and later published a column of editorial comment. The following is an extract of some points in the editorial:

The striking thing is that the Rev. Mr. Doty, an able man who made his observations come to two main conclusions, independently. First, that Bay City needs desperately some definite plan to be ready for the future; second, that it needs a leadership vision and an individual vision.

The conclusions were sound and interesting. They would not have been possible had not Mr. Doty by making such a survey, even though it was in a small way, done an outstanding piece of constructive civic work, a most encouraging effort on the part of a church to play an active part in extra church community service.

Mr. Doty pleaded that steps be taken to avoid the serious mistakes of other cities in connection with future growth, according to the account of the Rev. Mr. Doty's service published in The Bay City Times on Monday.

"A city does not grow by chance," the Rev. Mr. Doty stated, in pointing out that someone in the city must make a big effort to establish any progress. "Bay City will grow," he said, "because certain citizens will work to obtain a growing city. It is the tendency of the city to grow, but it is the duty of the citizen to make it grow."

"Now is the time," the Rev. Mr. Doty said, "that the city should plan for a future growth. Areas should be provided for parks and playgrounds and a general policy with regard to future expansion adopted."

In this last sentence, the last part of it, The Times believes was cited the most pressing need of Bay City today. "A general policy with regard to future expansion adopted."

Nothing to our mind, is more essential to Bay City in the present stage of its development and the present prospects for a greater development.

Guns and furs are sold at the Department offices at Lansing. The original owner of a gun is given 80 days in which to purchase his gun back from the state. If he fails to do this within the limited time, the gun is sold at a price fixed by the Department.

Several automobiles confiscated by the Department will be sold at public auction.

BUILDING AT HARTWICK PINES

Facing giant Red and White Pines, one of the two virgin stands in southern Michigan, a large log cabin is being built in Hartwick Pines State Forest. The log building will be the first of a group that will serve as a memorial to the late Major Edward Hartwick and as a spot where the people of the state may visualize the great pine forests that made such a contribution to Michigan's wealth.

The log cabin, now in the process of construction, will serve as headquarters for the thousands who annually visit the park. Nearby, next year, will be another building, a museum of logs that will contain the relics of Michigan's fast declining lumber industry.

Two years ago, Mrs. Karen Hartwick gave to the state as a memorial to her husband the late Major Edward Hartwick, a site for a state park. It is in Crawford county, seven miles northeast of Grayling and contains the most beautiful of the two tracts of virgin Red and White Pine in Michigan. There are 60 acres of solid virgin pine that are now guarded as things of priceless value.

The Parks Division of the Department of Conservation, realizing the value and beauty of the Hartwick Pines, now has plans for enhancing the popularity of this park and of preserving the trees.

Just off the road that leads to the park, and facing a few hundred feet away, the great cluster of pines, a log cabin is being built. Logs, many of them with diameters reaching a foot and a half, are being lifted to the walls. The building will be seventy-one feet long across the face and forty-six feet wide. Across the front and facing the forest will extend a wide veranda.

At one end of the structure will be a room dedicated to the memory of Major Hartwick, and containing his war equipment and records. Adjoining, another room will contain pictures and relics of the Salling-Hanson Lumber Company which once operated on the spot. Restrooms will flank the other side of the building and in the center will be a great hall for the accommodation of the visitors. A huge fireplace is being built at one side of this hall.

Because of building difficulties in winter weather, construction has ceased until next spring. The building will probably be opened to the public about July 1, 1930.

A second log structure, a museum, will be started next summer as soon as the first is finished. It will house a museum of lumbering. Cant-hooks, "peevies," "jammers," stamp hammers, float pins, sleighs, drags, giant wheels—all of the tools, equipment and machinery used since lumbering in Michigan began, will be represented in the lumber camp collection.

To round out and complete the park with all of the necessary conveniences and equipment, roads and pathways will be built and a large parking place will be provided.

The fall of 1930 is expected to see Hartwick Pines State Park completed. There are but two stands of virgin Red and White Pine in the southern peninsula of Michigan. Both of them are owned by the state. One is the Hartwick Pines. The other stand is in the Interlochen State Park in Grand Traverse County. While the Interlochen stand is almost two times as large as the Hartwick Pines, it is not as beautiful, fire having destroyed some of the trees and many have fallen with the wind.

One of the purposes in creating state parks was to preserve Michigan's scenic beauties. In its improvements at the Hartwick Pines, the Department of Conservation believes that it will have adequately fulfilled its purpose there.

PLUMBERS MEET IN LANSING DEC. 12-13

Lansing, Dec. 2.—The new State Plumbing Code which has just been prepared in the offices of the Michigan Department of Health, will be given public hearing on Thursday and Friday, December 12 and 13, 1929, in the Senate Chamber of the State Capitol at Lansing. All persons interested in the provisions of the code are invited by Dr. Guy L. Kiefer, State Commissioner of Health, to attend the hearing.

Preparation, publication, and enforcement of a State Plumbing Code containing minimum standards for plumbing throughout the state was provided for by a law passed by the 1929 Legislature. This law also made provision for the licensing of all master and journeyman plumbers in Michigan after January 1, 1930. Those applying for a license before that time, and proving that they were engaged in the business on March 1, 1929, will be granted a license without examination. After January 1, 1930, examination will be required before a license is issued.
